Mr. Bateman will participate in a panel session titled "Outside of the USA/Look Over the Borders," in which he will discuss growth areas and opportunities outside of the U.S. Mr. Kroswek will be a part of a panel titled "Measure, Analyze, Plan, Implement, Succeed," where he will speak about the importance of intelligently using big data to pave the road to success. Both sessions will be held on Wednesday, September 23.

Ryder, which has served the automotive industry for over 40 years, is the largest automotive lead logistics provider supporting operations of the world's leading OEMs and their suppliers across North America. Ryder has been the premier sponsor of the Automotive Logistics Global Conference since its inception in 2000.

"This event is a great opportunity for Ryder leaders to interact with executives in the automotive industry and to further enhance the company's robust automotive supply chain solutions offering," said Darcee Scavone, VP & GM of Automotive, Aerospace & Industrial Operations, Ryder. "We are proud to be a preferred partner for the industry as it looks to grow operations throughout North America in the coming years."
